Hello from ICT for Education,

We are delighted to invite you to the ICT for Education Conference, which will take place on Friday 13 May 2022 at Carrow Road Stadium, NORWICH.

You are welcome to forward this email to colleagues, and to bring guests.

Our sessions will cover issues such as: nurturing creative thinking in the Computing classroom; delivering the Computing curriculum to a budget; getting value when purchasing IT equipment; using technology to support pupils with additional needs; providing a safe and secure networking environment within school...and much more, ensuring delegates go away with new ideas and content to take back to school on Monday morning!

Also not to be missed is an exhibition of school-focused ICT products and services where you can discuss your school's needs face-to-face with established and knowledgeable education suppliers.

Networking is a key feature of our conferences and you will have ample time to hear how other schools are using technology in the classroom.

"The ICT for Education Conferences have been a highlight of my calendar for a number of years now, as these have provided a brilliant opportunity to engage with teachers and the ed tech industry." – Miles Berry, Professor of Computing Education at University of Roehampton School of Education.
